HOSPITAL IS TO OPEN IN OCTOBER

Thomas D. Dee Memorial Will Be One of the Most Modern Hospitals in the Country—Automatic Elevators a Feature—Building is Made Fire-Proof.

If comfortable quarters and aesthetic surroundings are of any value in the restoration of health, then the Thomas D. Dee Memorial hospital is certain to show a remarkable percentage of cures. The palatial institution, being built for the city through the benevolence of the Dee family, is now nearing completion and will doubtless be opened for service in the early part of October. Built at a cost estimated at $100,000, the hospital will be unsurpassed by any institution of its kind in the world. There may be larger hospitals and sanitariums, but there is none that is more modern in equipment, and indeed here built in a more picturesque location.

Perhaps it is the scenes that stretch out from the wide windows of the new hospital that most particularly impress a visitor. And these scenes of mountain and city, of nature and man, perhaps linger longest in the mind. Here the student of psychotherapeutics might stop to ponder, for the same panorama that now attracts the eye and lingers in the mind of the visitor will also be viewed by the patients so soon to come to the institution for succor. Surely such a landscape as the patient may view from the windows and sun porches will help drive back the shadows and gloom which are his to fight. Beauty can but encourage the ego which makes for the insistence of life; an unquestioned essential in the combating of disease.

No Danger of Fire.

The hospital is situated on Twenty-fourth street, between Capital and Harrison avenues. The site includes three acres of land. The building is constructed largely of red pressed brick, and will be as nearly fireproof as a hospital can be made. There will be no fire in the building for heating purposes. Heat and power will be supplied from a smaller structure, built also of brick and standing nearly a hundred yards from the hospital proper. Little work has been done as yet on the grounds surrounding the institution, as this improvement can wait until next spring, when the grounds will be sodded and otherwise beautified.

The main building will have four floors, the three upper ones for the use of patients and the basement for kitchens, sleeping quarters for the help and other service rooms. It will be possible, should the increase in patients demand it, to accommodate some inmates on this floor.

Eliminating Noise.

The staircase, reaching from the ground to the top floor, is built within the building, but in a small addition to the main part of the structure on the east side. Being partitioned off in this way eliminates any noise which might be caused by persons climbing up and down the steps. The elimination of noise is being considered an important feature by the builders.

The second floor will be called the "mixed" floor, that is, there will be no division of patients because of sex. The third floor will be exclusively devoted to female patients and the fourth to male patients. This makes it necessary that the second floor take care of both men and women. The second floor will also be the receiving department, and one might say, the diagnosis department, for it will be determined here whether the patient is to lose a diseased appendix or be treated for typhoid fever. From this floor he will be taken to more permanent quarters on either of the upper floors.

A Floor for Women.

The third floor, devoted entirely to women, will have a ward large enough to hold eight beds, another ward of smaller proportions and individual rooms. In respect to rooms, the fourth floor will be similar, but on the north side are located the main operating rooms. Here is a room where the patient is placed under the influence of the anesthetic and wheeled into an adjoining room, where the operation will be performed. The operating room is to have a lead floor, a very modern feature, and one which is being adopted in some of the best operating hospitals in the world. The lead deadens the sound of the surgeons moving about. It is never slippery and it affords poor refuge for bacilli.

Adjoining the operating room will be a sterilizing room, where the instruments of the surgeons will be kept and cleaned before and after operations.

There is to be a second operating room on the second floor, but the fourth floor will be where most of the operations are performed. Both rooms will be floored with sheet lead and will be equipped with every available sanitary precaution.

Padded Floors.

The halls throughout the building are wide and spacious with padded floors, so that even the soft tread of the nurses will not reach the sensitive ear of the patients.

An Otis automatic elevator is to be installed in the shaft now almost completed. This elevator works without an elevator boy. One needs only to press a button to bring the elevator to his service. It will be one of the few elevators of the kind in the state of Utah.

On each of the three upper floors there are to be verandas, both to the south and north sides of the building—sun rooms, as they are called. Here the tired invalid or convalescent patient may bask or bathe—if he prefers to call it bathing—in the prophylactic rays of the sun. Spirit may have another source, but life, as it is known to the biologist, is only a by-product of solar radiation. All the energies of life are sun-given. Germ life, however, cannot adjust itself to the direct action of the solar rays, and many disease germs die after a short exposure to direct sunlight. So the sun baths in some instances may not only dispel the clouds of morbidity that accompany disease, but may be an active agent in restoring the patient to health. The views from these porches will be especially beautiful. Being situated on both the north and south sides, make them convenient for both summer and winter service.

Wards and Rooms.

In the fitting out of the various wards and rooms the hospital association is being assisted by a number of Ogden individuals and societies. Wards are to be furnished by F. J. Kiesel, M. S. Browning, the Amalgamated Sugar company and the Martha society. Five hundred dollars have been donated to the hospital association by the Weber club. Individual rooms will be furnished by Mrs. J. S. Lewis, Judge H. H. Rolapp, Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Rich, the Eastern Star lodge, Miss Katherine Joyce, Mrs. John Scowcroft, Albert Scowcroft, W. H. Watts, S. J. Burt & Bros., Sam Kline, W. H. Wright & Sons company, Ogden Furniture & Carpet company and Miss Rosabell Dee. There is to be a donation from the Relief society of the Weber stake and the hospital association has a promise of fruit donations from the Y. L. M. I. A. The Ogden Medical association will furnish the operating rooms, which will cost not less than $5,000.

When the hospital is opened, it is likely that the general public will be invited to visit the institution. In fact a public opening is being planned by the hospital association.

Low Prices and Easy Terms Not Enough

We do not base our claim for the patronage of the public merely because our business and financial strength enable us to offer lower prices and easier terms than are obtainable elsewhere.

These of themselves would amount to nothing without the high quality of the goods to back them up. The pianos we offer for inspection are gathered together as the result of sixty years experience of Piano manufacturers making instruments for American trade. We have tried out many different makes, passing aside those which have been found wanting, and keeping only those which through time and service have proven their worth. Beginning with Steinway, the highest grade and best instrument manufactured in the world, and including the Sohmer, Kimball Vose and Sons, Estey, McPhail, Irving, Hinze and others, which for years have stood the test of this Western climate, together with a score of other world renowned makes, we present a line the equal of which is to be found in no other musical establishment west of the Mississippi river.

FROM WHOM WILL YOU BUY?

Unfortunately it is not always possible to get an unbiased opinion regarding the different makes of pianos, but one can find out for a certainty the standing of the dealer who sells them. We refer you to any bank in the city, who can consult the rating of our Concern as reported by Bradstreet's and Dun's financial agencies. We want you to investigate our responsibility.

HE INTICED BOYS FROM HOME

Robert Ash was arraigned before Judge Murphy a few days ago and pleaded not guilty to vagrancy. The city was not ready to hear the case and it was postponed until yesterday when Officer Herriek appeared as a witness. The result of the testimony given was that the court found the man guilty and sentenced him to serve sixty days in jail, or pay a fine of $60.

The officer stated that when arrested, Ash was in company with two boys of Salt Lake who were running away from home, and that they represented to him that Ash had led them to believe that he could get work on a cow ranch in Wyoming, "ranging horses." He did not know the boys were under age, and had no thought of doing wrong when he associated with them.

They were young boys and you surely knew they were under age and ought not to be away from home," said the judge, "and when you undertook to aid them in getting out of the state you committed a wrong that deserves a heavy punishment. I will teach you a lesson to be more careful in the future, by fining you $60 or to serve sixty days in the city jail. This matter may be given further investigation and if it is discovered that you were entirely innocent of aiding the boys to run away, steps may be taken to secure a pardon from the mayor for you. At the present time, though, I am certain that a sixty-day penalty is none too heavy. There are too many boys leaving their homes and those who aid them in any way to accomplish their purposes, deserve no leniency from the courts.

VAGRANTS IN POLICE COURT

Vagrants, mendicants and drunks were in the municipal court yesterday and they fared fairly well—much better than they expected. The court appeared to be in the right humor to allow those before the bar to get out of the city and go to work at something, and, accordingly, he gave "floaters" in a number of instances, enforcing the idea that the men would be sentenced to serve 90-day terms at hard labor if they failed to get work or leave the city. This delighted the offenders and they made the most profuse promises regarding their future conduct, all leaving the court room with "Thanks, Judge."

John Castello was before the court Friday on the charge of vagrancy and he was given a hearing, at the conclusion of which the court concluded to take the matter under advisement, the officers in the meantime to more carefully examine the man as to his mental condition. The court felt yesterday that the man was not exactly right, but this morning when Castello stood before him, he declared him to be a vagrant, stating, however, that he did not care to give him a jail sentence.

"You are a vag," said the judge, "but I will give you the same show that I am giving these other men. Get out and go to work or leave the city under penalty of 90 days in the city jail if you fail to do so."

The charge of vagrancy against Fred Wilson, colored, was withdrawn by the complainant, Officer Herriek, it being represented by counsel for Wilson that he is a man of family and works for a living.

Charles Policy, Roy Lambert, Fred Mayes, Henry Smith and Monroe Gudy, the three latter being negroes, were given 90-day "floaters," and the officers were advised to see to it that the men leave the city or go to work. The fellows extended many "thanks" to the court for the courtesy, and hurried from the court room lest they might be "pinched" for something else.

William Luther was found guilty of mendacity, committed on July 29, and he was sentenced to serve ten days in the city jail at hard labor. Will Carter, a colored man, said he was "unlawfully drunk" Friday, and he will serve five days in jail or pay a fine of $5.

Dave Johnson was also drunk Friday. He will be required to pay a fine of $5 or spend five days on the city chain gang.

Leonard Fowler failed to appear and answer the charge of exceeding the speed limit with his automobile, and his bail of $10 was declared forfeited. The offense is alleged to have been committed July 29.
